CHAPTER 2

2.0 BACKGROUND

2.1 The Constitutional of Kenya Amendment Bill, 2019 (Bill No. 19)

2.2 Memorandum of objects and reasons

6. The principal object of the bill is to amend Article 97 (1) (c) of the Constitution to expressly include Kenyans in the diaspora as a special interest group to be catered for in the party lists from which twelve members are nominated to the National Assembly.
7. The bill further states that Kenyans in the diaspora contribute significantly to the economy and therefore require an avenue to participate in the political space of their home country. The nomination of a Member to represent the special interests of Kenyans in the diaspora will give them an adequate opportunity to voice concerns for resolution by the House.
8. The enactment of this bill will not occasion additional expenditure of public funds.
9. The bill does not delegate legislative powers nor does it limit fundamental rights and freedoms.
10. Article 97 of the Constitution which is proposed to be amended states that-
11. The National Assembly consists of-
 - (a) Two hundred and ninety members, each elected by the registered voters of single member constituencies;
 - (b) Forty seven women, each elected by the registered voters of the counties, each county constituting a single member constituency;
 - (c) Twelve members nominated by the parliamentary political parties according to their proportion of members of the National Assembly in accordance with Article 90, to represent special interest including the youth, persons with disabilities and workers; and
 - (d) The Speaker, who is ex officio member
12. The proposed amendment to Article 97 of the Constitution states that;

3.1 Sources of views

22. Several members of the public either individually or representing institutions and organizations submitted their views to the committee by way of written and oral submissions

23. A comprehensive list of members of the public who attended the public hearings in the various counties is attached for reference as annexure 5.

24. The written submissions received and comments in a matrix form in support and against the Bill are attached to this report as annexure 3.

25. Members of the public made proposals to amend the Bill as indicated in the Matrix.

26. 83% of participants across the counties visited opposed the amendment Bill. Highlights of the opposing views are captured as follows:

Individuals

(a) Mwasiri Sinangoa, Deputy County Registrar of Persons opposed the amendments on grounds that the interests of Kenyans in the diaspora can be represented by their local area member of Parliament since they are established in other countries and there is an emerging trend where Kenyans in the diaspora are participating in the political affairs of their respective countries of domicile. They are also adequately represented by the Kenyan foreign missions in their countries of resident.

(b) Naomi Mwang'ombe, Kang'undo constituency opposed the amendments. She argued that the existing representation is sufficient and there is need to create

- to be considered in the countries of minorities who should be accorded preference before considering Kenyans in the diaspora;
- (c) Justus Kalendi, Deputy Sub-county Administrator, Mavoko opposed the amendment and stated that Kenyans in the diaspora should be represented by Ambassadors/High Commissioners serving in their respective countries of domicile.
 - (d) Mr. Mohamed Ali from Wajir opposed the amendments on the grounds that it will politicize and fragment the country more.
 - (e) Mr. Ibrahim Ahmed from Wajir opposed the amendments on the grounds that recently the National Assembly declined approval of a nominee for ambassadorial appointment because of her dual citizenship status.
 - (f) Mr. Ali Garaj opposed the amendments on the grounds that it will bring into the country "European attitudes" including homosexuality.
 - (g) Ms. Fatuma Yusuf opposed the amendments on the ground that it will be an extra burden to the taxpayer.
 - (h) Mr. Hussein Mohamed from Wajir opposed the amendments and proposed that more opportunities should be given to the youths.
 - (i) Pauline Kisilu, Mavoko Sub-county of Machakos County opposed the amendments on grounds that if Kenyans in the diaspora want to participate in governance matters of their home countries, they should come back home and seek elective positions.
 - (j) Kenyans in diaspora may share air their concerns about governance matters in Kenya through Kenyan Embassies and Missions abroad or through print and social media.
 - (k) Elias Mahoma from Nakuru County opposed the amendment as the member of Parliament will not have allegiance to Kenya or a party in Kenya and may bring about conflict of interest because the nominated member may hold dual citizenship.
 - (l) Peter Ndingu Githae from Nakuru opposed the amendment citing inconsistency in the proposal and he did not understand how the nominated member was to represent diaspora in all countries.
 - (m) Vincent Tami from Nakuru opposed the amendment and was of the view that in drafting the Constitution, nomination was for those of special interest groups. Therefore, people in diaspora do not fit in the special interest groups.
 - (n) Speaker of County Assembly of Nyeri Hon. John Kaguchia was opposed to the amendment and noted that the amendment was not necessary despite diaspora being an important component to Kenya. He was of the view that it was not possible to get one member to represent all the diaspora interests and it ran against the proposals to reduce the current number of members of Parliament.

- (c) Simon Maina from Meru opposed the amendments stating that Kenyans should be represented internally and not externally.
- (d) Gavara Wanjohi from Nyeri, a representative of persons with disabilities opposed the amendments on grounds that a diaspora nomination seat is not necessary in Kenya because it was impossible for a diaspora member to perform oversight role.
- (g) William Koros from Turbo sub-county did not support the Bill because he felt there were Kenyans residing in the country who merit consideration for nomination and there is no need to have those in diaspora nominated.
- (f) Evelyn Akoth from Nyalenda B Ward of Kisumu County opposed the amendment that most persons who lived in the diaspora are from wealthy Kenyan families and giving them nomination slots may further favour them and yet they did not have strong political ties to the country.
- (s) Carmulos Otieno from Kisumu did not support the amendment. He argued that persons who did not live in Kenya have no understanding of issues affecting the country and those with political ambitions should come back and contest for elective seats.

Institutions

27. The following persons appeared before the Committee and submitted their views on behalf of various institutions they were representing:
- (a) Francis Ndegwa represented Nyeri, Central businessman and opposed the amendment on grounds that Kenya is over represented and there was need to reduce the number of elected and nominated representatives in both the National Assembly and the Senate. He further noted that ambassadors adequately have catered for diaspora interests.
- (b) Reverend Joel Gatimu representing Faith Based Organizations in Eldoret opposed the amendment and was of the view that Kenyan's in the diaspora are already employed outside Kenya and there was no need to give them jobs through nominations.
- (c) Felix Munyore from Vihiga, representing the Youth Leader did not support the Bill and was of the view that there was need to reduce the wage Bill and focus on strengthening Kenyan foreign missions so that issues affecting Kenyans in the diaspora are addressed through the Kenyan missions and embassies.
28. 17% of participants across the counties supported the amendment Bill. Highlights of supporting views were captured as follows;

INSIDE THE KQ FLIGHT CANCELLATIONS SINKHOLE

Inside the KQ flight cancellations sinkhole

The airline has already cancelled 52 flights in 15 days of August alone

BY ALLAN OJEMO
an@dailynation.co.ke

Kenya Airways has cancelled more than 52 flights in the first 15 days of August, and delayed 70 per cent of the scheduled trips this year at an astronomical cost to the taxpayer.

According to a confidential memo, which means a window into what the boss is thinking, the airline's cancellations lead the airlines with large compensation costs that amount to $100 million in the last seven months of 2018.

The cancelled flights, known by its internal flight code, KQ7, total a $17.55 billion net loss for the year ending December 31, as a major cause of a jump in losses.

The company's rising average $1.5 billion, largely driven by passenger loadings.

In the last two months, the airline has faced a barrage of complaints from customers over delayed cancellations and delays of flights. This has seen the government take inordinate intervention from the airline.

According to the memo, the main reasons for the flight cancellations are a shortage of pilots and a shortage of aircraft.

A significant amount of pilots of the airline's 2019 on time performance (OTR) for the year ended 31st Dec of the cancelled flights were caused by crew shortages caused by pilots and crew taking leave to go back to work.

Under the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) now in place, pilots can be sent from work for up to 43 hours without providing any medical evidence, something which may be new being imposed, leading to the increasing cost of crew short-ages during flight cancellations.

During the delays or cancelled flights, the airline reports to provide essential services and/or accommodation, meals, ground transportation as the situation requires. With an increasing number of

Out of the airline's 25,000 scheduled flights in 2018, only 23,420 (or 94 per cent) were on time. A 2.4 per cent were delayed by more than 15 minutes. 100 Internet newsletter

These incidents, the costs of which are estimated to have been above budget by 200 per cent, the memo says.

The KQ Chief Executive Officer, Richard Ombaka, told staff on Tuesday in an internal newsletter that since the beginning of 2019, the airline's performance has deteriorated significantly due to crew shortages.

The total number of pilots who have been provided with compensation in an amount of $10,000 for the seven months, or an average of 2,000 per month, has been struggling to stay afloat for years.

The state of affairs has triggered a severe crisis between the airline management and employees alike.

In what is now emerging as a stark picture among the staff, which includes the pilots, the center is on the edge to its delayed and cancelled flights rise through the month of August.

The airline's average on time performance is 91.5 per cent, down from 97.5 per cent over the period last year.

The main reason that has affected KQ's on-time performance, crew shortage, KQ has been struggling to find pilots and crew to fly its 25,000 flights in the 2019 season.

According to the memo, KQ has an air cancelled since then 52 flights in the 15 days of August alone, its highest so far this year, as pilots' cancellations because a striking issue, with the airline saying that the loss it signed with the Kenya Airlines Pilots Association (KAPPA) is high.

The agreement reached two years ago after a protracted strike, allows the airline to send only 100 pilots to work on any day, leaving the other 100 pilots at home. The memo shows that in the airline's 2018 season, 25,000 flights were cancelled, with 23,420 flights on time. A 2.4 per cent were delayed by more than 15 minutes. 100 Internet newsletter

Eighteen of the 100 pilots who were on duty in July 2019 were on leave. The KQ Chief Executive Officer, Richard Ombaka, told staff on Tuesday in an internal newsletter that since the beginning of 2019, the airline's performance has deteriorated significantly due to crew shortages.

Japan, EU put on the spot over ivory trade

Kenya has a population of 35,000 elephants

Japan and the EU have criticised Wednesday for failing to close their ivory markets as recommended at the 2016 Kyoto-level wildlife summit.

The two countries have not fully honoured the commitment made by parties during the convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora, Conference in Johannesburg, South Africa. Big game are declining significantly throughout Africa and Asia. Kenya has 35,000 elephants.

Toronto CBS Joseph Bwano and acting Director Wildlife Policy, Research and Monitoring (WRM) are in the Kenya delegation at this year's CITES conference in Geneva, Switzerland. Kenya's position is that all legal ivory markets, whether in Asia or Europe or anywhere else in the world, trade illegal ivory, poaching and killing of elephants.

Bwano, Pwani, Cote d'Ivoire, Ethiopia, Gabon, Liberia, the Niger, Nigeria and the Syrian Arab Republic also the trade closed. The parties to CITES took issue with countries that still have domestic ivory markets, urging them to shut them. Further, they insist that compliance measures for countries with markets need to be strengthened.

On April 30, 2015, Kenya set a record 205 tonnes of elephant ivory and 1.25 tonnes of rhino horn to be auctioned off. President Uhuru Kenyatta's cabinet leaders and conservationists protesting the sale of ivory killed for the rhinos.

"The ivory trade is worth less than a tonne of gold," Uhuru said. The message was meant to send a message to the world that ivory has no value and that its trade should be banned. Every year, at least 20,000 African elephants are killed illegally for their ivory.

Failure to CITES such as Kenya, the only bold action will help save the world's natural heritage from becoming extinct. In many parts of the world, ivory is still being traded, poached, however, still prefer keeping their markets.

ToG chair Oparanya says inactive barring named county chiefs from office is causing confusion

By Hillary Mnjaka

The Council of Governors (COG) has said it will appeal Justice Mwangi Kiambu's ruling on the government's decision to bar county governors from office during the election period.

The ruling, which was issued last week, has triggered protests and confusion in counties.

Addressing a press conference yesterday at the Council headquarters at Delia House, Nairobi, Co-Governor Wycliffe Oparanya said the ruling brings on the rule of natural justice that accused persons are innocent until proven guilty. "Any ruling that bars county governors from office will eventually change the constitution," he said.

Oparanya said the ruling is "not a decision on the merits of the case, but a decision on the merits of the case."
